

RADCO INDUSTRIES, INC.

Conveying, Weighing, Bagging and Batching Systems

Fully Integrated Pre-Engineered Systems For Materials Handling and Control

As a leading global supplier of fully integrated, pre-engineered systems for a wide range of materials handling and control application, Radco Industries, Inc. provides practical and cost-effective solutions to meet your most demanding processing needs.

Over the past two decades we have installed systems for material intake, transfer and storage, pneumatic conveying, weighing and feeding, batching, blending, bag filling and unloading and process controls.

Each system is ready to install when it arrives at your site and includes all mechanical components, instrumentation and controls to meet the specific requirements of your application. Most systems require only utility and process connections, and incorporate field-proven technology that is engineered to meet the latest industry codes and standards. All systems are subject to rigorous testing and quality standards to ensure rugged, durable operation and years of reliable service.

Radco Industries, Inc. pre-engineered systems are also backed by one of the industry's most comprehensive customer service programs – inclusive of system installation, equipment training, preventative maintenance agreements, spare parts inventories, and ongoing technical support to keep your system up and running with minimal maintenance.
